ADAMBOTS

Keeping You in Our Nucleus
Team 245

START OF THE FIRST SEASON

Welcome back! After a long break, the Adambots are ready to put all of their knowledge into practice. With the game release and kickoff happening on January 8th, the Adambots met up and started their season on the Sunday after. All the teams are hard at work for their first competition coming up on the 2nd of March.

THIS YEAR'S GAME

In CHARGED UP presented by Haas, two competing alliances are invited to process game pieces to bring energy to their community. Each alliance brings energy to their community by retrieving their game pieces from substations and scoring it into the grid. Human players provide the game pieces to the robots from the substations. In the final moments of each match, alliance robots race to dock or engage with their charge station!

THE ADAMBOTS

The AdamBots are hard at work to get their season started. The Engineering side (Mechanical, Programming, Electrical, CAD) are busy with the first competition coming up quick. The Business side (Impact and Communications, Sustainability, Imagery and Photo/Video, Media) are also just as busy to get their submissions and/or presentations ready.

OUTREACH

The AdamBots are continuing advocacy even outside of the SASA, Student Association for STEM Advocacy, NAC, National Advocacy Conference, program. They continue their efforts in their city with the teams around them
